DATE: June 12th, 2013    0800-1700

LOCATION: Spokane Police Academy

DESCRIPTION: NW3C presents this one day course begins by establishing a basic understanding of the concepts and components behind the Global Positioning System (GPS). Students will then be introduced to a wide array of GPS devices, ranging from portable and marine navigation units to tracking devices. Focus will then shift to best practices for seizing and preserving the vast amount of location information that could potentially be stored on GPS-enabled hardware. From there, instructors will guide attendees through the use of forensically-sound tools and techniques designed to extract and analyze GPS data in the most effective manner possible. Proper methods for documenting and presenting location-based data will also be discussed.

This course is designed for individuals who possess a basic understanding of computer software. It utilizes applications, both free and commercial, currently in use by experienced practitioners as well as those new to the computer forensics discipline.
